

Your Starting Point

POST-SEASON

The data you collect now is your advantage next season.

SECTION 05 · BREAKTHROUGH TRACK · MAZE PERFORMANCE

01 · WHAT THIS PHASE ACTUALLY IS

THE SEASON IS OVER. THE WORK IS NOT.

WITHOUT REFLECTION

Athletes close the season and open a gap. They put the journal down, stop tracking, and wait. And then the next season starts and they start over. Same habits. Same patterns. Same friction.

WITH REFLECTION

The athlete who does the post-season reflection does not start over. She starts from data.

This is the most important hour of your entire season.
One hour. Before the memories fade.

02 · TIMING MAP + THE FIVE QUESTIONS

WRITE THESE. DO NOT JUST THINK THEM.

GAME + PRACTICE PAGES

READ THEM

Go back through your pages. What patterns do you see? What did your inner voice do in pressure moments?

HABIT TRACKER

DATA REVIEW

Which habits held? Which stayed amber/red? Those are your entry point for next season.

SATISFACTION WHEEL

RESCORE

Rate all eight categories again. Put beginning score next to end score. That distance is your season.

1 Who was your athlete at the beginning of this season her confidence, her relationship with pressure?

2 Who is she now? Not stats. Who changed.

3 What was the hardest moment for you as a support parent and what did you do with it?

4 What is one thing you did this season you are genuinely proud of?

5 What is the one thing you want to do differently next season? One. The most important one.

03 · STRATEGIC FOCUS

YOU ARE NOT STARTING OVER.

You are starting from what you know.

Document everything while it is still vivid. The patterns, the moments, the things that surprised you. This data does not disappear when you close the journal. It becomes the foundation of every conversation at the start of next season — with your athlete, with your coach, with yourself.

WAYPOINT 9 Awareness without a framework does not create change. It creates guilt. You had the framework.
